

The Ada UK Conference, 2006
Building better, safer software

Lowry Hotel, Manchester

28 March 2006

A full-day event to be held at one of Manchester's top conference venues:
state of the art facilities, city centre setting, excellent transport links.

Back by popular demand! After a short absence, the timely return of a UK-based Ada conference is being organised to promote awareness of the Ada 2005 language revision, and to highlight the increased relevance of Ada in safety-critical programming.

The day will include keynote presentations from eminent author and consultant John Barnes, and famous writer and programmer Robert Dewar – plus an exciting dual track programme comprising a series of technical talks, and a set of vendor presentations featuring product technical roles. Expect to see a full programme October/November 2005.

The substantial group of major vendors participating will offer demonstrations throughout the day – see overleaf for those already signed up.

This high calibre Ada conference is expected to attract many professional Ada users and reinforce links between all sections of the Ada community in the UK, creating a new momentum upon which to build a successful annual event.

For more information:
Joan.Atkinson@ncl.ac.uk, +44 191 221 2222
www.ada-uk-conference.co.uk

Event operated by CSR, in cooperation with the Safety-Critical Systems Club:
www.safety-club.org.uk

Event lead sponsor and advocate:
www.adacore.com

Please register my interest for the Ada UK Conference, March 2006 or Please book a delegate place for me at the Ada UK Conference, March 2006 at a cost of £140
[delete one line and fax to +44 191 222 7995, or send an e-mail to Joan.Atkinson@ncl.ac.uk]

Name.....

Address.....

.....

.....

Telephone..... Email..... Vegetarian: Yes/No

Vendor presentations and exhibitors at the Ada UK Conference, 28 March 2006

AdaCore
The GNAT Pro Company

I-Logix

IPL

WIND RIVER